Public sector organisations provide a service for everyone: for example education (schools) and security and safety (police and armed forces). These services are paid for via taxation.

- Employment in the public sector, which encompasses public administration, defence and health, is higher in the Humber than the Yorkshire & Humber wider region, and England as a whole.
- There are a variety of different career opportunities within Local Authorities ranging from solicitors, accountants, marketing/media roles and IT to conservation.
- Nearly all public service organisations offer apprenticeships.
- Part of the recruitment process for the armed forces, police and fire services involves assessing physical fitness, literacy, numeracy and communication skills.
- In Hull & East Riding the largest employers are East Riding of Yorkshire Council and Hull City Council.
- There are over 50 different careers to choose from in the RAF, 220 in the army and well over 5,000 in naval services.
- The fire service has changed radically in the last 10 years. Today, the job is as much about promoting community safety as it is about putting out fires.
